

Dr Samantha Moss

My name is Samantha Moss, I have been a consultant respiratory paediatrician in Newcastle since 2010. I went to St Mary's Hospital Medical School in London, before moving to Exeter where I started my paediatric training. I carried out further training in Liverpool, before finally coming to settle in North East in 2002. Along with my colleague Dr Mike Mckean I run the regional severe asthma service. The ethos of our service is to try and ensure patients have the best quality of life possible, to do this we try and ensure our patients and families are well educated regarding their asthma. We try to empower them to manage the day to day variation in their symptoms. We also actively involve them in decisions regarding their treatment options.
